

RCTC Report
December 2007

RCTC

Most of the classes in Term II are completed. A few are finishing up this week with make-up classes.

Registration begins for Term III on January 2 and we have been receiving calls about our upcoming classes. We have added several new classes as well. Look for our ads on WICU Channel 12 including one that will air during the Buffalo Sabres game on New Year's Day.

An informal survey of our former Medical Coding students from 2005-06 and 2006-07 shows 71% of completers are currently working in the medical field and six of those have earned the CPC national credential.

The office is a busy place these days with visitors looking for information, mechanics coming in to renew their emission inspection license, and individuals needing to be fingerprinted. Pat Kalinowski, Susan Tatalone and DeVona Henderson are doing a remarkable job handling the variety of demands.

New Choices/ New Options

We are currently conducting individual appointments with this year's completers to go over career plans and set employment goals.

We are also working on a quarterly report for PDE and an annual report for Labor & Industry on participants from 2006-07.

Our next class is scheduled to begin on January 7.