

Literacy & Numeracy

Going into Spring, many of our labs focus on teaching students to prepare for entry into the work force by asking them to write resumés and cover letters. Even as our students are composing these important documents, our faculty and administration reach out to businesses in the community to find out what local employers expect from potential employees, academically and technically. A team of four people--Joe Tarasovitch (our principal), Robin Grimes (our literacy coach), Tammy Bright (our math coach), and Sandy Carr (our professional skills instructor) – visited Industrial Sales & Manufacturing, Inc. on the West 12th here in Erie to tour the plant and speak with owner Jim Rutkowski, Jr. and manufacturing manager Gary Prescott about literacy, numeracy, and employability skills.
