This vehicle will be used in the Automotive Technologies instructional labs and was officially announced and accepted earlier today prior to the JOC session.

The following information from Ford Motor Company's website regarding this program is shown below:

"The Ford Future Techs Program allows educational institutes, with an automotive training program, the opportunity to apply for a chance to receive a Ford vehicle along with related technical and computer support materials to help better train their students. These donated Ford vehicles will be relatively new, allowing the students to train on the most up-to-date technology and software so they are better prepared to succeed in their future careers."
